She I've had enough of the cool and the rough
Of the deep of the shift of the verb
Sing me a love song sing a song of love
For love songs, perspectives go pale
I was raised on love songs and hope they never gone
Suspend subtle rekins and searchin' crap
That we've had enough of 'all' long
Give me a corny one, heart felt and plarney one
Sing me a good old love song

He: I won't talk of love like Cole Porter once said
It tends to put ideas into our head
No I'll sing a song without mentioning love
Embarrassing Word Overheard I would dread
We can't get away from Love Songs
They've been drummed into us all our lives long
If we sing it together it will come out
But the time that it's out it is gone
Not out of fear but because we are near
Let's sing a real time love song
