

Till the Sun came over the Hill 174
Starlight and the countryside
City lights to the East

I played this June a hummer along
But no words came to be

Morning - ~~on~~ on the same spot
Whether this June still Dawn of the day there was yet enough to say
Till the Sun came over the Hill

Moonlight has its profound effect
Candles unquench in their glow
We might be luminous deep in a cave
Everything's light I suppose

But sometimes we're hit by the forces ~~of what all this existence do feel~~
Wherever we go
Which all this whole galaxy and I couldn't believe it would come home to me
Till the Sun came over the Hill

Worth and Brightness that charms us
For our early morning ~~large~~ crawl
Looming over blood and informing us
That we can plug into it all
Now we can see the Parallels
On the edge of the sea
On mountains that rise from the waters are far away turning streets
